

The FCC should not lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. The privacy law has returned my homelife to a normal state of calm only interrupted by important calls. The phone never stopped ringing until I became protected by this law and I do not want to give it up.